The Atlanta Journal faithfully reports that the biggest strike ever known in the history of the country has extensively circulated in every city, town, and village throughout the country. The center of the trouble is with the farmers, who, as a result of the depression, are demanding their rights. The democratic record shows that the farmers have been deprived of their rights, and the People's Party is their champion in this struggle. The natural result is that the farmers are demanding their rights, and the People's Party is their champion in this struggle.

GRAND CLEARANCE SALE!

J. E. Murphy,
LEADER OF STYLES AND LOW PRICES.

There are a great many things in my stock which must be sold, at my price, if I can, at your price if I must.

Cost will not be considered. They must go.

I am not going to sell everything at once. Many things may stay the year around, and will be sold, as always has been, at a reasonable price. But there are many things, new things, fresh things, beautiful things, which go with the season, and I must sell them while I may.

I offer them at and below Cost.

I will sell the same for Fall, since, you and the good people.

Your price takes it.

J. E. MURPHY, West Side Public Market.

The Little Scene.

This is the little many things she could not talk about. She would have talked about it had she not been in a corner. She would have talked about it had she not been in the yard. She would have talked about it had she not been in the field. She would have talked about it had she not been in the house. She would have talked about it had she not been in the barn. She would have talked about it had she not been in the garden. She would have talked about it had she not been in the pasture. She would have talked about it had she not been in the orchard. She would have talked about it had she not been in the meadow. She would have talked about it had she not been in the wood. She would have talked about it had she not been in the city. She would have talked about it had she not been in the town. She would have talked about it had she not been in the village. She would have talked about it had she not been in the country.

The Farmer's Pay the Bill.

Miss Annie's daughter, who has been married about a month, and who is a resident of this town, was called upon by the farmer who works on the property. He said, "I have just heard from the Farmers' Pay the Bill Office that Miss Annie is due $7,500 in the present quarter. I will pay it for you." Miss Annie thanked him, and said, "Thank you, Mr. Farmer. This is a great help to us." The farmer replied, "I am glad to be able to help you. But I hope you will pay me back as soon as you can." Miss Annie replied, "I will pay you back as soon as I can. Thank you again." The farmer went away, and Miss Annie thought to herself, "This is a great help to us." She walked to the bank, and paid the farmer. She then went home, and said to her husband, "We have paid the farmer. We can pay the other bills now." Her husband replied, "Yes, we can pay the other bills now. Thank you for paying the farmer."

The Progress Man.

The editor of the Cleveland Progress after a day of severe work, on the 8th and 7th of December, 1893, when asked if he was going to the meeting with which this paper is connected, said: "I am not going, nor will I go to this meeting, or that meeting, to the Cleveland Progress, because I am a writer and not a politician, nor a politician and not a writer."

"But," he continued, "I will go to this meeting, because it is a meeting of the Progress, and as such, I am a member of the Progress, and as such, I am entitled to attend it."
