What's the Matter With the Bill?

The judicial committee of the House of Representatives

unanimously reported the bill over the register. What's the matter with the bill?

The House passed the bill last morning in the same spirit that it was reported by the committee. The question is whether the Senate will pass the bill without amendments. The House passed the bill by a vote of 73 to 49.

The register was signed by Mr. McGregor, of Pierce, and the bill was signed by Mr. Mesa, of New York.

The Next of Jove.

Jove was satisfied with a modest submission, for the most partly in the form of an ornament, that shaved itself,

began to give a voice, and then fell asleep. It is said that the next of Jove, for the most part, consists in ornaments, that shaved itself,

began to give a voice, and

then fell asleep.

A fellow got a check for a hog at this office a little while ago and the hog was not here. The whole work was done from memory.

Our own office and the post office are being fitted up for the new mail service, and the new post office building will be ready for occupation very soon.

A number of our miners have been talking about a railroad to the mine, and they are planning to start work on it soon.

The World's Fair will be held in Chicago this summer, and it promises to be a great event. Many of our people are planning to go.

Mr. J. T. Brown, of the Lumpkin County Historical Society, will be one of the speakers at the opening ceremony of the fair.

We have heard that the new Post Office Department building in Washington, D.C., will be ready for occupancy in the spring of next year.
COMMISSIONER
NEWBUT'S TALK.

Regular Monthly Letter to the Farmers of Georgia.

The Editors of 'rhe Farmers of Georgia.

This is a monthly letter to the farmers of Georgia, written by Commissioner Newbut, who is a well-known agricultural expert and advocate for agricultural improvements.

In this letter, Newbut discusses various agricultural topics, including crop cultivation, farming techniques, and the importance of conservation practices. He also encourages farmers to participate in local agricultural organizations and to engage in discussions with their peers to share knowledge and experience.

Newbut emphasizes the need for farmers to adopt modern farming methods and to invest in the latest agricultural technologies to increase productivity and reduce costs. He also highlights the importance of soil conservation and the need to prevent soil erosion to ensure the long-term sustainability of farming practices.

Overall, Newbut's letter serves as a valuable resource for farmers looking to improve their agricultural practices and stay informed about the latest developments in the field of agriculture.

If you have any specific questions or would like to discuss further topics related to agriculture, feel free to reach out and I would be happy to provide additional information or resources.

Best regards,

[Commissioner Newbut]
The Great Removal Sale

Having determined to close up our establishment, we have a large stock of goods, which we are offering for sale at prices far below cost.

We will put an end to our dress goods, boots, shoes, and all the above mentioned, at the most reasonable prices.

COUNTRY MERCHANTS

Or merchants who are not accustomed to going to the Eastern States will find it in their interest to call and see our goods being placed over their goods. So remember the time to come when you wish to spend your money. Respectfully,

The soils of the eastern United States are naturally poorer in phosphorus than the western or the northern. The phosphorus content of the soil is not only the result of the composition of the parent material, but also the result of the climate and the history of the region. The soils of the eastern United States are generally low in phosphorus because of the long and cold winters, which are not conducive to the growth of plants that are high in phosphorus.

The recommendation of applying phosphorus to the soil is almost universal in all sections of the United States. In the eastern United States, where the soils are naturally poor in phosphorus, the recommendation is almost universal. In the western United States, where the soils are naturally rich in phosphorus, the recommendation is not as universal. In the northern United States, where the soils are naturally poor in phosphorus, the recommendation is almost universal. In the southern United States, where the soils are naturally rich in phosphorus, the recommendation is not as universal.

The recommendation of applying phosphorus to the soil is based on the fact that the phosphorus in the soil is not only the result of the composition of the parent material, but also the result of the climate and the history of the region. The soils of the eastern United States are generally low in phosphorus because of the long and cold winters, which are not conducive to the growth of plants that are high in phosphorus.
