A REMARKABLE GOLD DISCOVERY.

Denver, Colo., November 26—What may be described as the Wynn process of treating ores is now carrying Colorado into the grand era of ore refining. In spite of the almost universal steps taken with which the first reports of its success were met, no one has been able to account for the bogey that has followed in its tracks. For weeks it has been the most discussed of modern inventions, but has been met with ridicule.

Senator Henry M. Teller, whose brother William is the chief director of the process in Colorado, has just spent several days in the laboratory of the company. He stated his acquaintance with the theory that his brother, one of the greatest geologists and practical miners in the state, was the originator of a huge background machinery, and able to command whatever degree of circumstance and management, and regardless of the kind of pay, if in his power he might require for the successful extraction of the large plant in contemplation.

In this discovery is what is accepted, and what many conservators have claimed already proved, the possibility of grouping the momentous revolution it foretells. An illustration of the possibilities of experiment the experience of General Manager C. W. Riddle, of the Burlington, may be traced. He tested 300 pounds of ore from Owyhee county, Idaho, where his interest is centered. In the face of the old man of the lot showed a value of $1 per 200 pounds of silver, or less than 1 cent per ton, to the ton. This Wynn process yielded almost a hundred dollars from the alignment of silver, or more than $17 per ton. The Wynn process yielded a billion dollars from the alignment of gold, or $80 per ton, or $82.25 an ounce.

Here is the result of the operations obtained from Colorado, and from other states:

From Aspen, 400 pounds; silver, $6; gold, $5; by the Wynn process, $11.40; value, $22.80.

From Shoshone, 500 pounds; silver, $0.50; gold, $10; by the Wynn process, $15.50; value, $25.50.

From Ely, Nevada, 1,000 pounds; silver, $0.25; gold, $10; by the Wynn process, $12.50; value, $22.50.

From Leadville, 500 pounds; silver, $1; gold, $5; by the Wynn process, $9; value, $16.

From Columbus, 500 pounds; silver, $0.50; gold, $2.50; by the Wynn process, $3; value, $4.50.

From Wye, 500 pounds; silver, $0.25; gold, $0.25; by the Wynn process, $0.50; value, $0.50.

From Leadville, 500 pounds; silver, $0.50; gold, $2.50; by the Wynn process, $1.50; value, $3.

From Leadville, 500 pounds; silver, $1; gold, $5; by the Wynn process, $7; value, $12.

From Leadville, 500 pounds; silver, $1; gold, $5; by the Wynn process, $7; value, $12.

From Leadville, 500 pounds; silver, $1; gold, $5; by the Wynn process, $7; value, $12.

Dr. H. H. Lightner of Dublin, Ga., has invented a device that will prevent hats from becoming too heavy. He is now in the business of making and selling these hats, and the firm is capitalized at $50,000. The hat is made of a special material that is light and pliable, and it is designed to be worn for long periods without causing any discomfort.

ANNUAL REPORT
Of the President of the Dahlonega Temperance Union.

This following was read by Prof.
Willard Colvin, President of the Dahlonega Temperance Union, at the annual meeting, Dec. 15, 1901, and is a part of the minutes of the meeting.

This is the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Temperance Union and the second election of officers to serve at the next regular meeting.

And as president of the Union, I present this as my annual report.

This year completes the eleventh year of the Union. That has done much to advance along the lines of temperance sentiment.
There can be no dispute as to the fact that a lot of good might have been done. More is equally true. That there is much to be done is not for one organization, but doubtless; or that.

During the current year, the Union has not regularly met. A meeting was held at the annual called it a good program was rendered, and the people there to that purpose, not by large attendance at every meeting. And at each meeting a number of persons have given their pledge to total abstinence from intoxicating beverages, and that they have for so long time and regularly come together in these meetings in opposition to the liquor business, and in promotion of a healthy and strong public spirit along this line. It is not the purpose of this annual report that presents this annual report to the next annual every year, but to the social, moral, and religious improvement of everyone in the community.

But whether his conscience never slept, never rested; and if he has any conscience any more right he is not satisfied that the dis-people to be stained and active, and earnest.

The sale and use of intoxicating beverages is the greatest of the sins of our time. They are not to be recognized as such by any one who has lived under the good government of the United States.

And it cannot be that the liquor business is a plague upon the general welfare of the people of the United States. It is not a necessary evil, but it is a dangerous evil, and it is a menace to the public health.

And we must stand together and fight against it, and we must

Chained for Blood

A thin body makes this thin blood. A thin blood makes this thin body. Each makes the other worse. If there is going to be a change, the help must come from the blood, and the blood from the food.

Scott's Emulsion is the right help. It breaks up such a combination. First it gets the stomach right. Then it cures the blood. That strengthens the body and it gives the body and the blood both something better.

Scott's Emulsion makes rich blood and rich blood makes a rich body. There is no better.

Scott's Emulsion contains no opium, morphia, chloral or ether.

Col. Baker was called to Atlanta this week on a summons from the United States public defender. The arrest is said to be for some offense against the city of Atlanta.

The Nashville Democrat, Dec. 12, 1901

Mr. W. J. Elder, editor of the Dahlonega Recorder, has returned from a trip to Atlanta where he attended a meeting of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

In a recent address to the employees of the Dahlonega Recorder, Mr. Elder said that the newspaper was doing well and that he was confident of its continued success. He urged the employees to continue their efforts to make the newspaper the best in the state.

Mr. Elder also spoke of the progress being made in Dahlonega and the surrounding area. He said that the town was growing rapidly and that new businesses were opening every day.

The Recorder has been in existence for over a hundred years and has been owned by the Elder family for several generations. Mr. Elder is the fourth generation to own the newspaper.

The Recorder is printed on high-quality paper and is known for its in-depth coverage of local news and events. It is read by people of all ages and backgrounds.

The Recorder is also available online at www.dahlonegar.com. Subscriptions are available for $20 per year.

The One Way to Sell Land.

The Man With the Black Whiskers.

Georgia has a stringent law forbidding nervous (not to be trusted) men from giving evidence in court cases. Shortly after the passage of this enactment Judge Lester was holding a case in a little town, says the G-lobe-Democrat, that naturally he speedily suspended the trial of the case by ordering the sheriff to lock up the defendant.

"Foolishly," said the Judge, with a laugh, "I gave these people a fright. I will have just a plain cold on me in this room, and I reckon it will take some time to get it out of them, and if I violate a law the magistrate might arrest me as a single thing, but by golly, I'll have a grand jury and hold him, too, if I see that he will walk up to this stand and throw a cold on me and I will let him off the list.

The judge paused, and a lawyer standing just behind him got up, apologized for the smoke; so much for the quietness of the old Brighton school, of which he was a member; and the old home for reunion of the last year. Georgia has a stringent law for enforcing this kind of work by the employment of officers, and should have executive power. A mayor is an executive officer, and should have executive power. A mayor has executive power, and should have executive ability, which may be described as equal rights of all and give special privileges to none."—Hamilton H.

The Making of Character.

Do not let us suppose that character requires great circumstances for the making. Character can be made in poor circumstances, if a man works by the employment of his ability, which may be described as equal rights of all and give special privileges to none.—J. H. Whelpley.

The Hoop-Snake.

In answer to an inquiry from W. F. Ritty, in the Commoner, grows his opinion as the quahog the mayor of a municipality should possess. A mayor may be an ex-officio officer, and should have executive ability, which may be described as equal rights of all and give special privileges to none.—J. H. Whelpley.

The Teething Toothache.

The toothache is a common complaint of both children and adults. It can be very painful and interfere with daily activities. The best way to handle this condition is to see a dentist as soon as possible.

Dentistry has not only relieved pain but has prevented further damage to teeth. The skillful application of dental methods can remove decay, fill cavities, and prevent further decay.

Dental decay is a common problem that can lead to tooth loss if not treated correctly. Regular dental checkups are important to prevent dental decay and maintain healthy teeth.

The teeth are protected by enamel, which is the hardest substance in the human body. Enamel provides a protective barrier against acids and bacteria that can cause tooth decay.

The mouth is home to many types of bacteria that can cause tooth decay. These bacteria break down sugars in the mouth into acids that erode the enamel and cause cavities.

Tooth decay can be prevented by practicing good oral hygiene. This includes brushing twice a day with a fluoride toothpaste, flossing daily, and eating a healthy diet.

One Day's Salaries.

This is not an imaginary tale. It is the story of a young man who has come to my notice. I know his name. He has been educated in the public schools and is now attending college. He is a good boy and good boy, but he is not a success in the field of life.

He has been working hard for the past three years, and has made a good showing. He is determined to succeed in life, and is doing all he can to further his education.

A friend of mine, who has known him since he was a boy, has given me this information. I have been watching him for some time, and I believe he will succeed in life if he continues to work hard.

One Day's Mutilation.

The young man mentioned above is a case of extreme mental strain. He has been working too hard, and is beginning to show the effects of it.

He has been working for a long time, and is beginning to feel the strain. He is beginning to lose interest in his work, and is beginning to show the effects of it.

He is a good boy, and I believe he will succeed in life if he continues to work hard.

The Nugget

Dahlonega, Dec. 29, 1901

There are more in Dahlonega today than there were in the gold rush days, for they know that they could get rich if they tried to live honestly.

An altercation Monday night between John B. Brooksher and John W. Holmes, in the latter being knocked down.

The mayor of Dahlonega, H. C., is in the act of the day. Go and make a subscription.

Mayor Prior, in his report, recommends the council to tax public roads and sidewalks, and to charge for garbage and trash.

The public roads are getting in dreadful bad fix again, but they will be repaired to just before the spring term of the court.

Santa Claus will find all kinds of toys for the children at the Bramble & Sons store also, and will give him many good things for the money that any child within 50 miles of Dahlonega.

You will find in your interest ads that we have included some ads as we propose to give the local bargains in the community until Christmas. A full line of humpbacked always on hand, Ora James will also have goods very cheap.

We are told that more than two hundred children are going on a field trip Friday to see the ending of the Downward of the Day of the Dead. John Johnson, on behalf of the city, is taking the children and encourages them to see the show. The Bootstrap has only two shows.

Wednesday was the reddest day we had this season. There was much work everywhere and the people were busy on their farms. On the railroad a train was in evidence and there were being served for lunch.

Saturday night at Old Bill Townsend was returning from Gainesville, Georgia, and there were many others in the train and it can be reasonably certain that he was in town.

Ch. S. Smith, a former student of the Georgia College, has returned from a trip to New York City, where he is a bright young man, personable and attractive. He will be returning to his studies in the fall of this year and should be seen for our benefit.

According to a previous column, there has been no snow this winter although the wind blowing from the northwest might indicate. We wish them all a merry Christmas.

The cadets turned in their guns Wednesday but it turned warmer this afternoon and we expect them not to have to be used for a long time. We will be glad to see them in good shape.

The election takes place next week and we expect a fair vote will be given by these gentlemen, for they will all wake up to-day and together with the other people will see the importance of voting, will transact the business of the city in such a manner as to please the people.

Why is it that new advertisers always think they'll have to be big and big, just as soon as their announce- ment appears, notwithstanding the fact that advertising pays, as there are not many advertisers who have been in the business long enough to understand that advertising has to be done in a certain way.

C. R. Holden, who has been printing and advertising for a few years, says that really all what the advertiser needs is just as much room as anybody else has to advertise, and that in a certain way.
