This is a junior college, an intermediary step between high school and a university. Such an institution can open doors of thought not presented earlier; yet it leaves much to be researched and learned afterwards. Even though a junior college begins with only a few interested persons, it must grow continually to meet the needs of all those who strive to attain higher education. This is a continuation of academics as well as the fulfillment of the extracurricular activities of young people. This is GAINESVILLE JUNIOR COLLEGE.
Gainesville Junior College Foundation serves as a means for people to show interest in the College by making financial contributions to promote opportunities for students in attendance. Plans are being developed to expand the service rendered by the Foundation.

Officially the Foundation has a legal charter and a duly constituted Board of Trustees. Men who have served and/or are serving as Trustees are listed below. Their service has been rendered freely and capably.

Gainesville Junior College

Gainesville, Georgia
Registration, Rat Week, Anchor, Miss Fathom pageant, basketball, Homecoming, quarter exams, spring sports, clubs and organizations, band and chorus concerts, drama productions, ... graduation — all this and more make up a year at Gainesville Junior College.
Registration

Registration is one of the most hectic days in the quarter. Closed courses become a problem when trying to get schedules arranged.
Rat week is a time to get acquainted with fellow students and provides fun and excitement for the rats.
Knowledge, study, and wisdom are very essential parts of a successful college life.
"Knowledge and wisdom, far from being one Have oftimes no connection. Knowledge dwells In heads replete with thoughts of other men; Wisdom in minds attentive to their own."

William Cowper
“Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man.”
Francis Bacon
"Let knowledge grow from more to more."
Alfred, Lord Tennyson
"Knowledge is proud that he has learned so much; Wisdom is humble that he knows no more."

William Cowper

The “Anchor”, G.J.C.’s student newspaper, is justifiably named because it anchors or holds down the students through communication. The first objective of the “Anchor” is to bring the news to the students. Through the “Anchor”, students at G.J.C. are able to voice their opinions through editorials and letters to the editor.

Circle "K" is a male service organization sponsored by Kiwanis. The objectives of the club are to build leadership, to be a service club and to serve the school and community, to stress citizenship and to build moral character, to provide training in the social graces, and to develop good fellowship and high scholarship.

Prospective members are selected by the Board of Directors. The Board consists of the officers of the club and one member from each of the two classes at Gainesville College. Prospective members are invited to join them by completing a standard application form. Prospective members are required to deliver a speech before the club as a unit stating reasons for desired membership.
The Collegiate Civitan is the women's club on campus. Civitan is a non-profit organization, primarily organized for the purpose of promoting good citizenship. Our aim is to develop in members, their associates, youth, and communities a high sense of responsibility toward common problems. We meet together regularly to have fellowship, to acquire a broader knowledge of community needs and public affairs, to become better prepared for intelligent leadership, to cooperate in solving civic problems, and to seek out opportunities to render altruistic service to mankind.

Club advisor is Miss Marie Swafford.
DECA stands for Distributive Education Clubs of America, a leadership training program designed for college DE students to join and participate in activities on the local, state, and national levels. DECA provides opportunities for group participation and career study, and develops leadership through service to college, community, and the nation. DECA is an important part of the total DE program, and all students are requested to become members of this active chapter. The club's specific activities include: individual research projects, participation in community activities, recreational activities, and a variety of chapter meetings.

David Woods, President; Charlene Phelps, Vice-President; Paula Pass, Secretary; Paula Patrick, Treasurer; Sue Bryant, Reporter; Alan Satterfield, Parliamentarian.
The only official junior college organization to recognize academic excellence and leadership ability is Phi Theta Kappa. Membership is by invitation only, and to be eligible a student must achieve a 3.5 cumulative academic average over at least two quarters of full-time academic work leading toward a recognized degree.

Members are initiated during spring quarter of each year in a formal ceremony for members, parents, faculty, and administration. Through the year Phi Theta Kappa participates in a program organized around a specific theme.

The officers for 1970-71 are Ola Reed, President; Ann Harper, Vice-President; Janice Brown, Secretary-Treasurer. The co-sponsors are Susan Landrum and Sandra Hanner.
The purpose of the Deutsch Club is to acquire an appreciative understanding of the German people, their culture, and their heritage. This purpose is achieved through activities and experiences other than the academic study of the language.
This program is open to all interested students and is organized to include some form of interteam competition for those of a variety of skill abilities. The activities will include both team and individual sports. The program provides opportunities for students to participate in a wide variety of activities learned in physical education classes. Its main focus is competition within the school with its primary purpose to provide fun and recreation for students. This program is in contrast to a program for the highly skilled which discourages the average players who are judged as not sufficiently skilled to play. In intramurals the average as well as the highly skilled players are all made to feel that they are wanted and are good enough to play. Each participant should play hard to win.

The program consists of four major teams: Boreas, Eurus, Notus, and Zephyrus. Each team will have a team captain and two faculty members as advisors. This program is sponsored by LACOSA and is open to all interested students.

Students, past and present, may be proud of the atmosphere of progress which has developed among our students and LACOSA. Yet we look forward to the students of this and future academic years to make even greater strides in creating a center of excellence in learning and awareness of social responsibility. Remembering that LACOSA is merely a reflection of the Student Body, it is the responsibility of each individual student to demand that LACOSA and Gainesville College always mirror the highest qualities of academic achievement and humanistic concern. Only by actively participating in the mechanics of a democratic student government can each student achieve this end.
The President’s Council of Gainesville College consists of the presidents of the clubs on campus plus the editors of the Fathom and “Anchor” and leaders from the athletic and music departments. Their combined efforts are directed toward unifying the various activities which occur on campus. By combining efforts, the clubs gain strength and cut confusion to a minimum. The President of the Council is the President of LACOSA, Carlton Allen. The Vice-President of the Council is always the President of the Sophomore Class.
Band
Chorus

Choral and instrumental groups are encouraged. The college offers instruction in concert choir, pep band, orchestra and small ensembles in both vocal and instrumental music. The Music Director invites all students that enjoy participating in musical activities to register for some phase or phases of the musical program.
The purpose of the Bio-Chem-Phy is to provide an opportunity for students to pursue their interest in science, to encourage the development of scientific skills, to afford an opportunity for the student body to acquire firsthand knowledge of the scientific professions, to encourage group and individual participation in scientific activities, to promote good fellowship and high scholarship, and to provide a means to form enduring friendships, and to build better communities. Qualifications for membership are limited to students majoring in the scientific field or by permission of heads of the science departments.
The Majors Club is an association for health, physical education and recreation. The purpose of this club is to provide an opportunity for professional growth in the area of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation; to participate in the organization and administration of the Intramural program; and to promote good fellowship among students through special projects. Membership is limited to students majoring in Health, Physical Education, and Recreation or by permission of the Department Head.
This club is designed as a part of the humanities program for junior college students. The emphasis of this club will be the development of basic creative skills inherent in everyone through the medium of the theatre. The course will also emphasize the necessity for promotion, publicity, and good business procedures. Knowledge of theatre arts is one of the primary desired results. Working on a production will readily improve the student's appreciation, critical insight, and vocabulary. Emphasis remains on motivating the student to learn more about theatre arts. An integration of working on a production, class lectures, and field trips serve as stimuli for the student. There are no requirements for joining the college players.
Gainesville Junior College has many faces. It is a basketball player on scholarship, a future engineer, a draft dodger, a beauty queen, a cardsharp, an outstanding scholar—a collage of personalities. It is fragments of people, some intensely concerned and some intensely disinterested; some who live in private worlds, some who live in public display.
Every school has its prominent students, yet the unnoticed are also essential. Each person contributes his share, large or small, to the school. Gainesville Junior College is, and always will be, the result of the accomplishments of each student who studies here.
We have 45 dedicated faculty members at Gainesville Jr. College.
