Hamrick, Hopkins Honored,
Forrester Named Life Trustee

Bob Hamrick and Marsha Hopkins, both of Gainesville, were honored at the Gainesville College Foundation’s 24th Annual Meeting held on January 13 at the College. Also at the meeting, Jim Forrester, Winder, was named an Honorary Life Trustee of the Foundation.

Hamrick received the Distinguished Service Award, and Hopkins was presented the Distinguished Alumnus Award from the GC Alumni Association.

Hamrick has served two terms on the Foundation’s Board of Trustees. Several years ago he received special recognition for his outstanding fundraising efforts on behalf of the Foundation. He is well-known throughout Northeast Georgia, having served as Mayor of Gainesville for three terms and as a member of the City Council since 1970. He is employed by Home Federal Savings Bank. He is a member of the Lions Club where he served in several leadership positions, the

GC: The Bridge from Mountains
To Capitol for Bill Stephens

Gainesville College gradu­ate Bill Stephens grew up in the very heart of Fannin County where the Blue Ridge Mountains have gently straddled the Tennessee border and settled just inside the state of Georgia.

In the peace and richness of mountain life Stephens dreamed dreams and made plans that were never met by anything less than the strongest encouragement.

"There was nobody there telling you you couldn’t do something," Stephens said. In this nurturing environment he also developed a sense of self and human possibilities and a loving indebtedness to the family and community that had shaped him.

"When I was growing up I knew that there were important people who had come from the mountains, so that made me think maybe I could do something important, too," Stephens said. "Also, I wanted to pay back — to give back — something in return for the opportunities that were given to me."

For much of his life Stephens had known one of those important people from the mountains: Zell Miller, whose mother had roomed with Stephens’ mother at Young Harris College many years before.

Over the years, Stephens’ commitment to the ongo­ing process of "paying back" repeatedly brought him into contact with Miller; they were colleagues in in­numerable civic, cultural and political causes. In the culmination of their flourishing association, Miller recently named Stephens executive assistant and direc­tor of communications for his new administration.

Alumni, Students Serving In Persian Gulf

A partial list has been compiled of students and alumni of Gainesville College who are serving in the Persian Gulf. The College has corresponded with each of them with a message of concern and support. Also, copies of Anchors Away and of the Anchor will be sent as they are published. Alumni who are acquainted with these who have been called are encouraged to write them.

A Shared Vision For The Future

By J. Foster Watkins
President, Gainesville College

Gainesville College paused to reflect upon its first 25 years of service to Northeast Georgia during 1989 and 1990. Our alumni were involved in a number of the special events which occurred during those years. This pause allowed the institution and its many supporters to reflect upon its productive past and to recognize the yeoman service of many who made those first 25 years so fruitful. However, if the Golden Anniversary of the founding of the College around 2014 is to parallel last year’s activities, the institution must not linger in its reflection on the past but must continue to work every day to position itself for the future.

One of the short-term operational objectives established for the faculty/staff/administrators during the 1989-90 academic year was the development of a shared vision for the future of the institution. It hopefully will provide direction as the College strives to be a player in the emergence of Northeast Georgia. A shared vision statement which was developed from broad-based discussions was considered by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees and was presented at the Annual Meeting of the Foundation. The evolutionary document is some 18 pages in length with 10 strands which describe the future of the institution as it is envisioned at this time.

I call your attention to those strands which are reflected as an abbreviated statement of the shared vision on page 8 in this edition of Anchors Away. The complete statement would be made available to any of our alumni who desire to receive it. We welcome any feedback from our alumni relative to this shared vision statement.

A key aspect of our efforts to position the institution for the future is in the area of financial support. We continue to be warmed by the fundraising success of the Gainesville College Foundation. Fred Kelly, Class of 1972 and Vice Chairman and Fund Drive Chairman for 1990, announced at the Annual Meeting that the $210,000 goal for last year had been surpassed. This success was achieved during a year when we were trying to reach closure on the $750,000 Endowment Challenge Grant opportunity. The success of that effort is detailed in the Maritime Mark included in this issue. When matched by the $1.5 million from the federal government and extended by more than $500,000 of endowment support which had been raised prior to this grant, the endowment base of Gainesville College as a public two-year institution is showing much promise. We will continue to work annually on our fund drive as well as our endowment base to move us toward the time when no students will find themselves in a position of not being able to further their education at Gainesville College because of financial need.

From that perspective, almost weekly I run into situations that distress me. Recently, while being served lunch by a young man, I entered into a conversation about his educational status. I had recognized him as a student at the College and inquired about his coursework this quarter. He indicated that he was not in school as he had to work and earn some money to be able to return next quarter. He had not contacted our Financial Aid Office about possible financial aid assistance. This indicates to me that we need to do a better job with respect to communicating with students about financial aid options. As alumni, you are in a key position to assist with getting the word out throughout Northeast Georgia that financial aid opportunities are available at Gainesville College because of the generous support of the Foundation and its many volunteers that work on its behalf.

The growing success of the Alumni Scholarship Trust which, when double-matched by the challenge grant, will have an endowment base of $88,000, should be a source of pride to all our alumni. Two very deserving students are studying with us through scholarships made available through that program.

Through Anchors Away we will continue to keep you informed about developments at the College and encourage you to participate in activities to become involved in leadership ways on the Alumni Council and on our Board of Trustees and — yes — give you opportunities to financially support through the Foundation the good things that happen at the institution.

In closing, we are encouraged by the fact that the number of alumni contributing financially through the Foundation increased from 90 in 1987 to 335 in 1990. We are grateful for our expanding alumni support.

tunity to make a legitimate difference in the quality of life for my children and for Georgians in general,” Stephens said. “If I can be part of the making of some of the decisions that will affect them, then I’ll be really happy.”

William Veach Stephens, 34, grew up in Morganton, Ga., the son of James Veach Stephens, recently deceased, a welder for some 30 years, and Barbara McDaris Stephens, now retired after 34 years of teaching at West Fannin Junior High School. Stephens has two sisters, Deana, an accountant, and Doris, also a teacher.

Stephens came to Gainesville College in 1974 on a basketball scholarship. His girlfriend, Rosemary Merritt, also came to Gainesville College—admittedly because Stephens was there. They were later married in 1976 and now have two sons, Joshua, 5, and Jordan, 3.

Stephens sees his two years at Gainesville College as a vital link in a chain of events and experiences that led him to his present work.

“If it weren’t for Gainesville College I would never have finished college or gone on to graduate school,” Stephens said. “Being lucky enough to get a scholarship to help pay for my education and lucky enough to run into Dr. Hugh Mills (then president of Gainesville College) at a crucial time in my life has made all the difference.

“I count myself among a number of students who probably would not have succeeded in college life, academically or otherwise, were it not for the special attention received at Gainesville College.”

After his 1976 graduation Stephens went on to the University of Georgia, where he earned his BBA degree two years later. Following a brief job with the Federal Land Bank in Columbia, S.C., Stephens returned to Gainesville where he went to work at Home Federal Savings and Loan.

Over the next few years, Stephens attended Georgia State University where he received his MBA degree in 1983. During the same time period he went to work for then-Lieutenant Governor Miller and was appointed Aide to the President of the Georgia Senate. With little discernible spare time he added the United Way and the Jaycees of Gainesville-Hall County to his growing sleight of community activities.

In 1984 Stephens took on the responsibility of chairing a Gainesville College steering committee charged with forming the College’s Alumni Association. In addition to laying the ground work for the social and fundraising activities that are still the core of the Alumni Association’s work for the College, he agreed to be the Association’s first president, a post he held for two years, and the coordinator of the 25th Anniversary Celebration.
Stephens' association with conservationist and Home Federal president James Mathis, Sr., along with his "natural affection for the mountains," inspired his 1986 co-founding and presidency of the Brasstown Bald Interpretive Association, a voluntary organization in partnership with the U.S. Forest Service aimed at funding programs to promote and preserve the national forests and the special sites that are a part of the forests.

"It's like any other partnership," Stephens said. "You benefit from each other's knowledge. It's a win-win situation for everybody...This is not a dress-rehearsal; these are the only mountains we have."

Out of his work with the BBIA Stephens assumed co-chairmanship of the 50th Anniversary Celebration of the designation of the Chattahoochee National Forest.

In December of 1988, Stephens relinquished his duties as vice president for operations at Home Federal and headed to Atlanta to be a senior assistant in the governor's office. At one point he was made the lieutenant governor's press secretary "for a day," a temporary post he ended up keeping through the 1989 legislative session and into early 1990. In March of last year he "left the state payroll and went on the campaign payroll" as Miller's director of communications and as one of four who were to manage Miller's quest for the governorship of Georgia.

"We did everything, from fund raising to delivering messages," Stephens said. "I was responsible for being there, for being available to the candidate at all times. I had to be there any time crucial decisions had to be made, whether they were made over the phone or on a plane."

Stephens rapidly got used to what he calls the pressure cooker atmosphere that pervaded during the campaign. As he and his present staff of five now refocus their energies away from winning an election to digging in their heels for the work ahead, that atmosphere persists.

"As we shift from politics to policy, the question is not 'What does this mean to the voters of Georgia?' but 'What does this mean to the children and families of Georgia?'. It's a subtle but important difference," Stephens said.

"We're going to look at a more efficient way of doing things. The governor has made some innovative decisions. We're going to shake things up, make some fundamental changes."

So, the work begins, and the intensity persists. If there is a calm at the center of it all, though, it is the trust and understanding between Miller and Stephens.

"We have a strong relationship," Stephens said. "Each thinks like the other. We've developed a lot of trust. Part of that has to do with our common background."

Stephens shares American historian Daniel Boorsstein's belief that life is "more graspable" in small places. In the mountains of northernmost Georgia, Stephens learned lessons and acquired resources that he keeps with him — lessons and resources that account for the almost palpable quiet beneath his drive and enthusiasm. Even on a day that begins with a 5:15 a.m. pre-dawn job and continues with shuttling children to school, staying on his car phone for the entire hour-long drive to Atlanta, "hitting the ground running," dealing all day with press, public and politicians, sometimes with the governor and sometimes in his behalf — even on a day like this, when life seems to be whirling about him, the quiet most always prevails.

"My background taught me what life is all about: faith, love, achievement, principles," Stephens said. "They are all important. You only get one shot at life and at making some kind of contribution."

IT MATTERS...

that Gainesville College Alumni support the fundraising activities of the College.

For almost 25 years businesses, corporations, and non-alumni individuals have been participating in the Annual Fund Drive of the Gainesville College Foundation. Now they are beginning to look to GC Alumni to join them in this effort.

Over 74% of Foundation contributions go directly to student scholarships.

In 1990, 335 alumni made a contribution to the Foundation.

Our goal in 1991 is to increase alumni support by 50%. This is a very ambitious goal — one that we cannot achieve without YOU.

IT DOES NOT MATTER how much you give...

IT MATTERS THAT YOU GIVE.

Let’s do our part to help the Foundation meet the 1991 Goal of $215,000.

Alumni contributing $25 or more will receive a 25th Anniversary Coca-Cola Bottle.

GAINESVILLE COLLEGE

A Shared Vision for the Future

A campus Strategic Plan was developed by Gainesville College in late 1990 in which were included planning priorities of the institution. At the top of the list of priorities was the need to “refine and implement a ‘shared vision’ for the future as the College enters its second quarter century of service to Northeast Georgia with emphasis upon its responsibilities as a regional institution.”

The statement which emerged from campus-wide discussions includes 10 points which reflect a view of the future and which will give direction to the faculty and staff of the College as the institution’s second quarter century unfolds. Gainesville College will:

1. Monitor and respond to the higher education needs of its service area with emphasis upon its responsibilities as a regional institution.

2. Enhance the development of its students through the “whole person” concept in the out-of-class environment which will complement its traditional strengths as an academic institution.

3. Increase its efforts to recruit and retain a student body which more nearly reflects the racial, ethnic, and cultural composition of its service area and to respond to the postsecondary and continuing education needs of a multi-cultural citizenry.

4. Develop early intervention strategies with local school systems and other appropriate agencies designed to raise the level of educational preparation and aspirations for and subsequent successful participation of students in higher education.

5. Strive to stay abreast of technological developments to fully utilize the capabilities of academic and administrative computing and educational media in support of curricular and service programs which must remain viable and relevant.

6. Continue its open admissions policy and explore ways to enhance academic and support services to more effectively serve students who enter with limited academic preparation.

7. Actively pursue funding through the University System and other sources to address the developing need for construction and upkeep of facilities and for enhanced operational revenues.

8. Foster the development of the Alumni Association, in coordination with the Foundation, in order to broaden the base of financial and area support which is vital to the success of the institution.

9. Give special attention to the recruitment of new personnel to ensure that the past successes in employment are continued and that people are brought to the institution who will share and help implement this vision for the future.

10. Continue to examine its purpose and goals, evaluate its strengths and weaknesses, assess its effectiveness in fulfilling its mission, and adjust to the changing educational needs of Northeast Georgia.

As we entered the decade of the '90s, the Gainesville College Foundation continued to set fund-raising records — having raised more than $1,200,000 in combined Annual Fund and Challenge Endowment contributions in the past two years. But more important than the amount raised was the record number of students who are being and who will be assisted by the Foundation.

On behalf of the students, faculty, and staff of the College, I wish to thank you for your generous response to our needs. Also, I would like to express appreciation to 1990 Fund Drive Chairman Fred Kelly, Honorary Fund Drive Chairman Joe T. The Gainesville College Foundation was formed in 1967 to generate and administer private financial support of the College. Overseeing the funds raised by the Foundation is a continuing responsibility of a thirty-six member Board of Trustees which operates through an Executive Committee.

Funds provided through the Foundation continue to increase annually and are utilized primarily for student scholarships, faculty and staff development, and the many area outreach activities of the College. In recent years increased emphasis has also been placed upon endowment activities.

Gainesville College in 1989 was selected as one of only 15 colleges and universities in the country to participate in a federally funded Endowment Challenge Grant.

The Gainesville College Foundation has been designated to receive $1,500,000 in endowment funding, contingent upon its raising $750,000 in endowment contributions. That effectively means that for every dollar raised, the Gainesville College Endowment actually receives $3. Contributions must be received by February 15, 1991.

What will be done with the endowment funds? The special $1,500,000 Challenge Grant and the $750,000 the Foundation is seeking to raise will go into an endowment. Half of the interest generated during the first twenty years will be available for scholarships for deserving students. After twenty years, all of the endowment, which by then will have conservatively grown to more than $5,000,000, will be available for College needs.

Contributions and pledges received total $685,000 toward $750,000 Endowment Challenge.

All 1990 contributors to the Endowment are listed under the various giving levels and identified with asterisks.

It hardly seems possible that three years have passed since we first began to talk about applying for a Challenge Endowment grant and to make plans for the first fundraiser for that effort. Now, our dreams are about to come to fruition and Gainesville College is on its way to having a meaningful endowment. We are pleased to have been a part of this campaign which will result in a perpetual benefit for the students who attend the College and for the communities from which they come. We have received such positive feedback about the College and support from people all over Northeast Georgia.

We are deeply grateful to the 20 members of the 25th Anniversary Club. However, we appreciate each and every gift to the Endowment, without which the goal of $750,000 would not be possible. We also acknowledge with gratitude all who have contributed their time to this effort.

The campaign is drawing to a close. However, the students who attend Gainesville College in the future and our communities will continue to reap the benefits of this endowment forever.

GTA PRODUCTION HAIRED AS ONE OF SEVEN BEST IN NATION

The drama program, through the Gainesville Theatre Alliance, gained national acclaim in April, 1990, for its performance at the Nationals of the American College Theatre Festival in Washington, D.C. "The Scarlet Pimpernel" competed in a field of 795 nationwide entries and was selected as one of seven of the finest university and college productions in the nation to perform at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Eleven students each year in the drama program receive full scholarships from the Foundation.
FOUNDATION HERITAGE CLUB

The Foundation Heritage Club was established to provide opportunities for supporters of the College to contribute to its long term future through the naming of the Foundation in their wills and insurance programs.

Anyone wishing further information about the Heritage Club may call Pat McArthy in the Advancement Office at 404/535-6248.

RECORD-HIGH ENROLLMENT
AT GC IN FALL 1990

Gainesville College experienced its highest enrollment over in the 1990 fall quarter. A total of 2,489 students were enrolled, up 6.1% over 2,347 students who attended the College in the 1989 fall quarter. It was the 12th consecutive quarter of record-high enrollments and the 20th consecutive quarter of enrollment increases over the corresponding year-earlier quarters.

GC STUDENTS SUCCESSFUL ON REGENTS’ EXAM

Almost 79 percent of Gainesville College students taking the Regents’ Test for the first time in the 1990 fall quarter passed the Test, the second-best rate ever, bettered only in fall of 1989 when 85 percent passed. The performance of those who repeated the Test was the best ever with a 71 percent passing rate.

The passing rate for GC students was 86 percent on the reading portion of the Test, compared with the University System of Georgia two-year college rate of 75 percent. On the essay portion, the passing rate was 86 percent for GC, compared with the System rate of 74 percent.

The College requires all degree-seeking students to take and pass both portions of the Regents’ Test.

SGA Leader Heather Moore Only Second Woman Elected
By Carroll Jones

Gainesville College's student government president brings an impressive package of talents, interests and abilities to the formidable position of chief representative of more than 2,000 students.

Pre-engineering major Heather Moore, 19, only the second woman in the College's 25-year history to be elected student government president, also can count enthusiasm and affection for the College among her many qualifications for high office.

"I love it here. It's wonderful," Moore said. "We have an excellent staff and faculty. All the instructors are so caring and so willing to help you.

"I try to tell everyone I know to come to Gainesville College first. It's not just a good transitional place. It's just a good school."

Bringing students together and keeping them together are expressed goals of the student government as well as the new president.

"I'd like to see more enthusiasm in our school," Moore said. "It's so difficult to get everyone involved. But we have an excellent entertainment chairman and outstanding members of our student government. We have great things planned to help get people together."

According to Moore, being a part of this planning is one of the real pleasures of her job.

"You get to be involved in so much. That's what I love. I love people. I really like getting to be around the faculty. And I also have the chance to meet a lot more students."

Moore was awarded the Norton Scholarship, designated for Gainesville College women and minorities working toward an associate degree in pre-engineering. She forfeited the scholarship, however, when she was elected student government president, since the Gainesville College Foundation provides a full academic scholarship for all student government officers.

Acting Director of Student Activities Clara Murray has enthusiastic praise for Moore who worked part-time in Student Activities office during the 1989/90 school year.

"Heather is such a delight to work with," said Murray. "She is so creative and open to suggestions, so positive. She is really an achiever. You don't know how good it is to know that someone with her ability is in the job of student body president."

In addition to her student government presidency, Moore is the student representative on the Alumni Council and is a member of the Student Center Steering Committee, the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council, and Sigma Pi Sigma Club for pre-engineering majors. She also works 20 hours per week in the Chemistry lab.

Last August, Moore attended the five-day Student Advisory Council Conference, held annually at Jekyll Island, Ga. The conference brought together more than 150 student government officers and representatives from across the state. Moore brought back both information and inspiration from the meeting.

"I learned that all student governments deal with apathy in school. But we're really lucky at Gainesville College to be small enough to solve the problems we have."

Outside her college life, Moore makes important time to sing in the Sugar Hill Baptist Church choir, work out daily for two hours at a fitness center in Buford, and visit with old friends and new ones. She also keeps in close touch with her "best friend," Matthew Jamieson, 19.

"I love movies, plays, and classical music," Moore said. "I also love to write. It's just hard to find the time to do it all. I really have to budget my time this year since I'll be taking physics, calculus, and English every quarter."

Moore, who is the daughter of Val Moore and David Moore, was born in Jacksonville, FL, but has spent most of her life in Georgia. She lived in Savannah, Lilburn, and Clarkston before moving to Suwanee, where she lived for eight years with her parents and brother, Kelley, 9. She presently lives with friends in Buford.

Moore attended North Gwinnett High School where she was captain of the cheerleading squad for two of her four years as a cheerleader, a member of the Keyette Club, secretary of Beta Club during her senior year, and a member of Mu Alpha Theta Math Club and the National Honor Society.

Alumni Phonathons Reach 1,367 Alumni

One hundred and five alumni made an average of 25 telephone calls each in November and December endeavoring to raise funds for the Alumni Scholarship Trust. A total of 2,832 calls to alumni were attempted, and 1,367 calls were completed. Phonathons were held on 11 different nights — three in Gainesville-Hall County, eight in other counties in the College's service area. In each Phonathon, an alumnus coordinated the effort. (See the 1990 Maritime Mark for photos of phonathons.)

More than $8,800 was raised to go into the Trust which currently has a balance of $29,464. Also, as a bonus in this campaign, 523 updates of names, addresses, phone numbers of alumni were received.

Legal Assistant Degree Program

A new legal assistant program under the Associate of Applied Science degree at Gainesville College will begin in the 1991 spring quarter.

The program was approved by the Board of Regents in January. It will be offered in addition to the successful legal assistant program which has been conducted by the Continuing Education Department for seven years.

The degree program will be offered through the Business Division. According to Louise Holcomb, Head of the Business Division, effective May 1, 1991, the National Association of Legal Assistants has changed the educational requirements to sit for the exam to include a minimum of an associate degree. The new GC program will meet this requirement, she added. Those who successfully pass the exam are designated as Certified Legal Assistants.

Holcomb indicated that the degree program consists of 90 quarter credit hours including Legal Assistant courses in Family Law; Civil Procedures; Criminal Litigation; Civil Litigation; Wills, Probate and Estate Administration; Real Estate Title Examination; Real Estate Closings; Legal Research; Bankruptcy; Contracts; and Corporations. The legal courses will be taught only in the evenings, but the remainder of the program may be taken either during the day or at night.

Mike Casper and Bucky Highsmith, local attorneys, are serving as Director and Assistant Director, respectively, of the program.

To enroll in the new degree program or to request additional information about the program, contact Dr. Holcomb at 535-6323. Enrollees in this program must file an application and meet all qualifications for admission to Gainesville College.

To enroll in the Continuing Education course only, contact Freida Hill, Assistant Director of Continuing Education, at 535-6318.

MONEY FOR COLLEGE: HOW TO APPLY FOR SCHOLARSHIPS, LOANS, WORK STUDY

Thursday, February 28, 7:00 - 8:30 PM

Are you short on time, money, and information on financing a college education? Steve Langston, Financial Aid Administrator of Gainesville College will present an overview of the factors to be considered in applying for financial aid to any college. He will discuss the forms needed to apply; give the steps and processes to follow; suggest ideas for different approaches to take; and offer advice in filling out the forms. This workshop is designed to help students and parents with financial aid questions for the 1991-92 school year. Fee: $5 per family.

Instructor: Steve Langston, Gainesville College

Call the Continuing Education Office at 535-6202 for more information.

Reminder to Alumni: If you have children of college age, encourage them to apply for the Alumni Scholarship. Call the Financial Aid Office at 535-6242 for information.
Alumni Honor Faculty/Staff

What do you do with 1200 home-baked cookies? Eleven members of the Gainesville College Alumni Association delivered them in the rain to the 200 Gainesville College faculty and staff on October 18. Earlier, 20 alumni had baked the cookies. As a part of National Higher Education Week (October 14-20), the Alumni Association was expressing appreciation to the faculty and staff for their dedication to quality teaching and service. The theme of Higher Education Week this year was "Generating Greatness in Every Generation."

"I am so impressed that these busy people would take the time to come out to the College and do this nice thing," said Christy Gregory, Associate Professor of Mathematics and herself an alumna of the College. "It is important that our current students see our alumni as professionals in the business world and to be aware that they still appreciate their former teachers."

Eleven GC alumni delivered 1200 home-baked cookies to the 200 GC faculty and staff on October 18 to express appreciation to them during Higher Education Week. Twenty alumni baked the goodies. Connie Dennis (left) and Harriett McNeal surprise Associate Professor Bill Taylor in his classroom.

Although a date for the formal dedication of the new Continuing Education/Performing Arts Center had not been set as this issue of Anchors Away went to press, the building is being used for speech and drama classes and for Continuing Education programs. The premier art exhibit is scheduled in the facility in February. Alumni are invited to visit the building at your earliest opportunity.

WE WANT TO HEAR FROM YOU!

Would you like to receive an Alumni Association membership card?

Have you:
- changed jobs?
- married?
- moved?
- continued college?
- added to your family?
- done something else that’s noteworthy?

Membership is open to all former students, not just graduates. There is no membership fee.

Tell us about it!
