This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Center for Undergraduate Research and Creative Activities (CURCA) at Nighthawks Open Institutional Repository. Welcome to the fourth volume of the Papers and Publications undergraduate research journal. This year, we are proud to showcase seventeen articles from diverse fields, like environmental policy, politics, creative writing, Latino studies, and biology.

The publication of this volume is bittersweet for me. On the one hand, I am so proud of the works that we have been able to disseminate, and I feel very fortunate for the opportunity to guide the development of the journal. On the other hand, this will be the last volume of Papers and Pubs that I will oversee, as I am stepping down from the position of Editor in Chief.

I would like to thank the UNG Office of Academic Affairs, the University of North Georgia Press, the Center for Undergraduate Research and Creative Activities, the editorial board, the production team, and the faculty who volunteered their time to review submissions. They have made my job a true pleasure and honor. I also would like to thank the student authors who put so much effort into the works contained in this volume, as well as the faculty who mentored them.

The creation and growth of this journal exemplify the commitment, professionalism, and drive of the UNG staff and faculty. I look forward to seeing what the future brings for the journal!

Sincerely,

Miriam Segura-Totten, Ph.D.
